

I am working as a full-time Professor and Director of Institute of Health Sciences at Vilnius University. Since 2001 I started work as a teacher and researcher at the Faculty of Health Sciences, Klaipeda University (Lithuania). I have clinical medical work experience of 8 years (1995-2003) at the Klaipeda Seamen's Hospital as Intensive care nurse, experience in national and international (European Commission TAIEX programme, Baltic Sea region programme, WHO Healthy City Network, etc) projects. I have published 93 publications in Lithuanian and International scientific journals, 3 methodological books, 22 articles in Clarivate Analytics database. I am a member of European Academy of Nursing Science (EANS) since 2006 (student in 2004-2006) and elected member of the Board of EANS since 2019. I was elected member of Klaipeda city municipality Council, chair of Health Care Commission. I have experience as a vice-minister of Education and Science of Republic of Lithuania. My main research interests are quality of nursing care, nurse and patient education, sexual education at the schools, nurse competence and nurse empowerment, health policy.

Natalja Fatkulina, RN, PhD, is a Director of Institute of Health Sciences, Head, Professor and Senior Researcher of Department of Nursing at the Faculty of Medicine of Vilnius University. She was graduated from international nursing doctoral school in Finland and defended her doctoral thesis in Turku University (Finland). Natalja Fatkulina has wide research experience in International projects financed by European Funds (Baltic Sea Region Programme, Leonardo da Vinci, Mari Curie). Also she was a leader of successful projects in Lithuania. Natalja Fatkulina has experience of 17 years in teaching for nursing and health care students in Bachelors', Masters' and Doctoral studies programmes. She is a member of EANS from 2005, elected Board member since 2019. NF has rich experience in highest level management and leadership. In 2014-2016, she worked a vice-minister of Ministry of Education and Science of Lithuanian Republic. In 2011-2016 was an elected member of Klaipeda city Council. Her main research interests are quality of nursing care, nurse and patient education, sexual education at the schools, nurse competence and nurse empowerment, health policy.